

City Trading App now available on App Store

London, UK -- October 21st, 2009, City Index, a global leader in Spread Betting, Contracts for Difference and margined FX, today announced its first live Spread Betting and CFD trading app for iPhone and iPod touch is now available on the App Store. The City Trading App provides clients full and secure access to their City Index trading account, giving them the ability to react to fast moving markets whenever they want, wherever they are.

Martin Belsham, CEO of City Index, said: "The launch of the City Trading App underlines our commitment to cutting edge technology and product innovation. We believe this the most user-friendly, mobile trading app in the market and gives our clients the opportunity to trade what they want, when they want, wherever they want."

City Trading use the revolutionary iPhone and iPod touch to offer users smooth and intuitive access to a number of features, including; checking the latest prices and market movements; opening and closing of positions; setting stops and limit orders; viewing pending, completed and cancelled orders; monitoring positions and many additional features including a bespoke positions chart.

Keith Goldson, European head of marketing at City Index, said: "The City Trading App provides our clients with the opportunity to react much quicker to market fluctuations - giving them instant access to latest prices and market movements on the go."

City Index client Mrs Osbourne, said: "It's great to finally have a trading app which is simple to use and fully integrated with iPhone. It's one thing being able to trade from behind a desk, it's something entirely different when you have the opportunity to react almost instantaneously to movements in stock price. The app is so user friendly, you waste no time navigating to where you want to be; whether it's to open or close a position or checking the price of say gold."

City Trading app is available for free from the App Store on iPhone and iPod touch or at <http://www.itunes.com/appstore/>.
