GLOBAL REGULATORY INITIAL MARGIN REQUIREMENTS – APPLICABLE ONLY TO FC AND NFC+

For all clients identifying as FCs and NFC+, SFL must also confirm whether you and your consolidated financial group transact in a “material” amount of bilateral, uncleared, OTC transactions. This information is required for purposes of compliance with global Regulatory Initial Margin rules which may apply between our entities. This means you must calculate, for a period of time determined by your local financial regulatory regime, an aggregate notional value of bilateral, uncleared OTC transacted by yourself and any entity with which your entity may consolidate its financial reporting under GAAP or IFRS or similar accounting rules (i.e. your direct parent and all affiliates). The value calculated is referred to as the Average Aggregated Notional Amount (“AANA”). If you have an AANA in excess of €8 billion (or the currency applicable to your regulatory regime), both you and SFL will be required to monitor and calculate daily regulatory initial margin exposure with one another during the life of our transactional relationship. If you have questions relating to your calculation of AANA, the International Swaps and Derivatives Association (“ISDA”) provides detailed information relating to this requirement on their website at isda.org.

Do you have an Average Aggregated Notional Amount (“AANA”) in excess of 8 billion for your jurisdiction’s relevant calculation period and in the relevant currency?

2. When regulatory IM exposure exceeds the Limit Trading Threshold, the parties may impose any necessary restrictions on transacting in any in-scope products; and
3. When regulatory IM exposure exceeds the Reduce Exposure Threshold, the parties may use all reasonable efforts to reduce regulatory IM exposures to ensure no exchange of IM collateral is required prior to the steps noted in item 1 above are complete.
